

WINTER BREAK PROGRAM IN INDIA

Trace the steps of Buddha through the Ganges River Valley in India during the 2009-2010 winter break with Prof. David Schirm.

Earn 3 credits during winter break.

Prof. David Schirm (Visual Studies) will lead a group of students to India to visit unique sites across the Ganges River Valley during the 2009-2010 winter break. The group will trace the steps of Buddha and create journals of their travels based on a variety of observations and readings.

The program begins in New Delhi and concludes in Varanasi at Banaras Hindu University (BHU). At BHU, students will have the opportunity to work with BHU students and faculty to develop a piece of work based on a chosen aspect of their travels. BHU faculty and local artists will also provide lectures on Indian art history, music and dance.

Program Itinerary:

New Delhi (3 days)	Varanasi, Sarnath (2 days)
Chandigarh (2 days)	Bodh Gaya (3 days)
Jaipur (3 days)	Varanasi (7 days)
Agra (1 day)	New Delhi (2 days)

Estimated dates: Mid December to Early January (exact dates to be confirmed)

Estimated costs:

Approximate Program Fee: $2200 (includes accommodation and in-country transportation)
Airfare: $1300
Meals & Personal Expenses: $1300

Application deadline: October 15th

UB STUDY ABROAD

210 Talbert Hall
716.645.3912
studyabroad@buffalo.edu
www.buffalo.edu/studyabroad

Program Director:
Prof. David Schirm
dhschirm@buffalo.edu

